The following information should be read in conjunction with the 12-month rolling past performance information provided later in this presentation

Portfolio strategy

- Underweight overall duration: Hold an underweight to duration in Japan and the U.S. Favor exposure to duration in the dollar bloc (particularly Australia).
- European duration positioning: Broadly neutral to euro bloc duration with a curve steepening bias, focusing exposure on the intermediate section of the curve. Maintain overweight to duration in the U.K.
- Spread sector positioning: Emphasize high-quality securitized credit vs. corporate credit. Focus on senior issues of global systemically important banks and other financial services issuers.
- Currency positioning: Continue to seek out diversifying relative value opportunities in select DM and EM currencies.

Fund specific risks

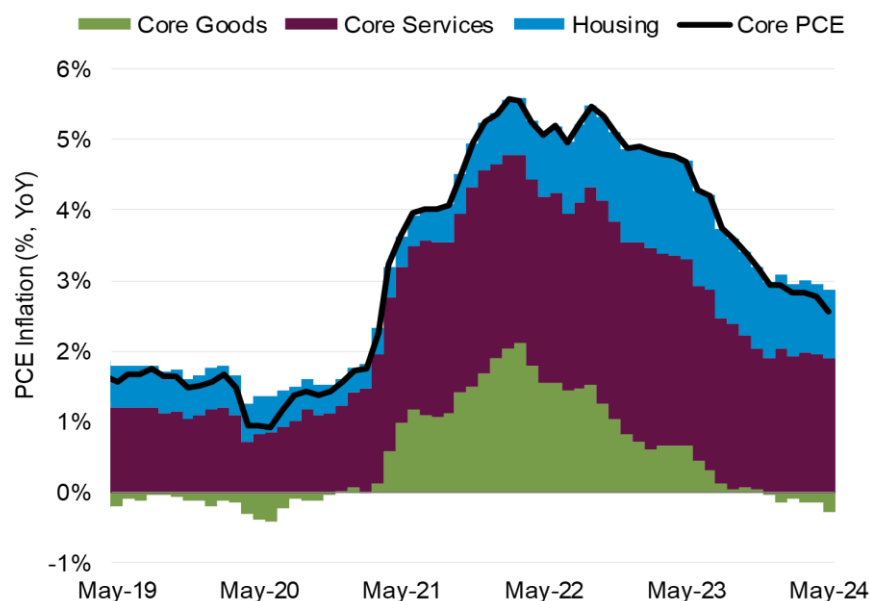

Risk	Risk Description
Credit and Default Risk	A decline in the financial health of an issuer of a fixed income security can lead to an inability or unwillingness to repay a loan or meet a contractual obligation. This could cause the value of its bonds to fall or become worthless. Funds with high exposures to non-investment grade securities have a higher exposure to this risk.
Currency Risk	Changes in exchange rates may cause the value of investments to decrease or increase.
Derivatives and Counterparty Risk	The use of certain derivatives could result in the fund having a greater or more volatile exposure to the underlying assets and an increased exposure to counterparty risk. This may expose the fund to larger gains or losses associated with market movements or in relation to a trade counterparty being unable to meet its obligations.
Emerging Markets Risk	Emerging markets, and especially frontier markets, generally carry greater political, legal, counterparty and operational risk. Investments in these markets may expose the fund to larger gains or losses.
Liquidity Risk	Difficult market conditions could result in certain securities becoming hard to sell at a desired time and price.
Interest Rate Risk	Changes in interest rates will usually result in the values of bond and other debt instruments moving in the opposite direction (e.g. a rise in interest rates likely leads to fall in bond prices).
Mortgage Related and Other Asset Backed Securities Risks	Mortgage or asset backed securities are subject to similar risks as other fixed income securities, and may also be subject to prepayment risk and higher levels of credit and liquidity risk.
China InterBank Bond Market ("CIBM")	The fund may be exposed to liquidity risks, settlement risks, default of counterparties and market volatility associated with CIBM. In addition, the CIBM rules are new and still subject to further clarification and/or changes, which may adversely affect the fund's capability to invest in the CIBM.

Quarter in Review

Seemingly slowing inflation reignites market optimism

After four months of sticky inflation prints to start the year, inflation began to cool in May, rekindling market optimism for 2024 rate cuts. Risk sentiment was mixed, with the MSCI World finishing the quarter up 2.6% and credit spreads widening modestly amid global political uncertainty. The Fed paused twice and revised its previously expected 2024 rate cuts down from three to one. Monetary policy paths began to diverge, with the Bank of Canada and ECB delivering their first rate cuts, and the BoE signaling the possibility of near-term cuts. Meanwhile, in Japan, 10Y Japanese Government Bond yields continued to rise in anticipation of further BoJ hikes.

U.S. Core PCE Inflation

Continued easing in core goods and services saw Core PCE slow to its lowest annual rate in more than three years.

Market-Implied Number of 2024 Rate Cuts

Easing inflation prints at the end of the quarter renewed market optimism for the expected number of rate cuts in 2024.

Market Summary

Q2'24: U.S. exceptionalism persists

The Fund's interest rate, spread and currency strategies contributed to relative performance over the quarter.

Developed market debt

Sovereign bond yields ended broadly higher across developed markets, though some central banks, including the ECB and Bank of Canada, cut their policy rates. Robust economic data in the first half of the quarter gave way to slowing inflation prints in June, including in the U.S., U.K., and Germany. In Japan, yields continued to climb as the Bank of Japan signaled a hawkish path forward.

Credit

U.S. investment grade credit¹ spreads widened 3 bps, ending the quarter at 88 bps.

The sector returned -0.05%, underperforming like-duration treasuries by -0.03%.

Credit spreads widened slightly, amid a rise in global political uncertainty and continued rate volatility.

Equities

Developed market equities² rose by 2.6% in the second quarter of 2024 driven by easing inflationary pressures and economic growth as four major central banks cut rates.

Yield Advantage: A fresh look at active fixed income

Generational reset higher in bond yields

We believe fixed income is set to deliver attractive risk-adjusted returns in multiple environments

Rise in term premiums poised to continue

Emphasizing active management important as yield curve steepens

Global opportunities are abundant

Active investors can seize global opportunities as economies diverge

Upside potential in asset-based lending

A strong consumer coupled with bank retrenchment creates a window of opportunity

Avoid areas of excess

Certain asset classes experiencing an increase in gains may be prone to euphoria and excess

Portfolio Outlook

Strategic outlook

In our view, higher savings balances and a slower pass-through of monetary policy in the U.S. compared to other developed markets could sustain inflation above the Fed's 2% target over the cyclical horizon. We anticipate that the Fed will begin normalizing policy in late 2024, lagging other developed central banks in both the timing of the initial rate cut and the number of subsequent cuts. Furthermore, we believe an economic soft landing is still attainable, although both recessionary and inflationary risks remain elevated following unprecedented global supply and demand shocks.

Key strategies

Interest Rate Strategies

The Fund is underweight overall duration with a focus on country, maturity and instrument selection. Favour exposure to duration in the U.K. and the dollar bloc, particularly Australia. We express a key duration underweight in Japan, given the end to their YCC framework.

Spread Positioning

The Fund prefers exposure to senior securitised assets, particularly mortgage-related assets in the U.S. and Europe with strong fundamentals and compelling valuations. The Fund reduced its corporate credit underweight while also increasing exposure in senior issues of systemically important banks.

European Country Positioning

The Fund is broadly neutral duration in Europe, instead preferring to express an overweight to duration in the U.K. given its vulnerability to higher yields.

Currencies

Currency strategies continue to act as a diversifying strategy in the portfolio and we seek opportunities in carry and valuation dispersion across countries. Given valuations, we maintain longs to a basket of select developed market, EM Asia, CEEMEA and LatAm countries

A new or smaller Fund's performance may not represent how the Fund is expected to or may perform in the long-term. New Funds have limited operating histories for investors to evaluate and new and smaller Funds may not attract sufficient assets to achieve investment and trading efficiencies. A Fund may be forced to sell a comparatively large portion of its portfolio to meet significant shareholder redemptions for cash, or hold a comparatively large portion of its portfolio in cash due to significant share purchases for cash, in each case when the Fund otherwise would not seek to do so, which may adversely affect performance.

Outlook

Statements concerning financial market trends or portfolio strategies are based on current market conditions, which will fluctuate. There is no guarantee that these investment strategies will work under all market conditions or are appropriate for all investors and each investor should evaluate their ability to invest for the long term, especially during periods of downturn in the market. Outlook and strategies are subject to change without notice.

Portfolio structure is subject to change without notice and may not be representative of current or future allocations.

Important Disclosures

Forecasts, estimates and certain information contained herein are based upon proprietary research and should not be interpreted as investment advice, as an offer or solicitation, nor as the purchase or sale of any financial instrument. Forecasts and estimates have certain inherent limitations, and unlike an actual performance record, do not reflect actual trading, liquidity constraints, fees, and/or other costs. In addition, references to future results should not be construed as an estimate or promise of results that a client portfolio may achieve.

Benchmark

Unless referenced in the prospectus and relevant key investor information document /Key Information Document, a benchmark or index in this material is not used in the active management of the Fund, in particular for performance comparison purposes.

Where referenced in the prospectus and relevant key investor information document /Key Information Document a benchmark may be used as part of the active management of the Fund including, but not limited to, for duration measurement, as a benchmark which the Fund seeks to outperform, performance comparison purposes and/or relative VaR measurement. Any reference to an index or benchmark in this material, and which is not referenced in the prospectus and relevant key investor information document /Key Information Document, is purely for illustrative or informational purposes (such as to provide general financial information or market context) and is not for performance comparison purposes. Please contact your PIMCO representative for further details.

The fund is actively managed in reference to the PIMCO Global Advantage Bond Index (GLADI) (London Close) as further outlined in the prospectus and key investor information document /Key Information Document.

Correlation

As outlined under "Benchmark", where disclosed herein and referenced in the prospectus and relevant key investor information document /Key Information Document, a benchmark may be used as part of the active management of the Fund. In such instances, certain of the Fund's securities may be components of and may have similar weightings to the benchmark and the Fund may from time to time show a high degree of correlation with the performance of any such benchmark. However the benchmark is not used to define the portfolio composition of the Fund and the Fund may be wholly invested in securities which are not constituents of the benchmark.

Investors should note that a Fund may from time to time show a high degree of correlation with the performance of one or more financial indices not referenced in the prospectus and relevant key investor information document /Key Information Document. Such correlation may be coincidental or may arise because any such financial index may be representative of the asset class, market sector or geographic location in which the Fund is invested or uses a similar investment methodology to that used in managing the Fund.

A word about risk: Investing in the bond market is subject to risks, including market, interest rate, issuer, credit, inflation risk, and liquidity risk. The value of most bonds and bond strategies are impacted by changes in interest rates. Bonds and bond strategies with longer durations tend to be more sensitive and volatile than those with shorter durations; bond prices generally fall as interest rates rise, and low interest rate environments increase this risk. Reductions in bond counterparty capacity may contribute to decreased market liquidity and increased price volatility. Bond investments may be worth more or less than the original cost when redeemed. Investing in foreign denominated and/or domiciled securities may involve heightened risk due to currency fluctuations, and economic and political risks, which may be enhanced in emerging markets. Currency rates may fluctuate significantly over short periods of time and may reduce the returns of a portfolio. Swaps are a type of derivative; while some swaps trade through a clearinghouse there is generally no central exchange or market for swap transactions and therefore they tend to be less liquid than exchange-traded instruments.

Derivatives may involve certain costs and risks such as liquidity, interest rate, market, credit, management and the risk that a position could not be closed when most advantageous. Investing in derivatives could lose more than the amount invested.

Important Disclosures

Acronyms and definitions of investment terms used throughout the report:

Alpha is a measure of performance on a risk-adjusted basis calculated by comparing the volatility (price risk) of a portfolio vs. its risk-adjusted performance to a benchmark index; the excess return relative to the benchmark is alpha.

Average coupon is the average of the coupon payments of the underlying bonds within the portfolio.

Average effective maturity is a weighted average of all the maturities of the bonds in a portfolio, computed by weighting each bond's effective maturity by the market value of the security.

"Bend-but-not-break" refers to credits that PIMCO would not expect to default in a credit-stressed environment.

Beta is a measure of price sensitivity to market movements. Market beta is 1.

Breakeven inflation rate (or expectation) is a market-based measure of expected inflation or the difference between the yield of a nominal and an inflation-linked bond of the same maturity.

Carry is the rate of interest earned by holding the respective securities.

The terms "cheap" and "rich" as used herein generally refer to a security or asset class that is deemed to be substantially under- or overpriced compared to both its historical average as well as to the investment manager's future expectations. There is no guarantee of future results or that a security's valuation will ensure a profit or protect against a loss.

CPI is the Consumer Price Index.

The credit quality of a particular security or group of securities does not ensure the stability or safety of an overall portfolio. The quality ratings of individual issues/issuers are provided to indicate the credit-worthiness of such issues/issuer and generally range from AAA, Aaa, or AAA (highest) to D, C, or D (lowest) for S&P, Moody's, and Fitch respectively.

Dividend yield is represented by the weighted average coupon divided by the weighted average price.

Duration is the measure of a bond's price sensitivity to interest rates and is expressed in years.

Effective duration is the duration for a bond with an embedded option when the value is calculated to include the expected change in cash flow caused by the option as interest rates change.

Forward curve is a function graph that defines the prices at which a contract for future delivery or payment can be concluded today.

Fallen angel is a bond that was initially given an investment grade rating but has since been reduced to below investment grade status.

GFC is the Global Financial Crisis.

Information ratio is a ratio of portfolio returns above the returns of a benchmark to the volatility of those returns.

Like-duration Securities are calculated by the index provider by comparing the index return to a hypothetical matched position in the security.

LNG is Liquefied Natural Gas.

The Option Adjusted Spread (OAS) measures the spread over a variety of possible interest rate paths. A security's OAS is the average return an investor will earn over Treasury returns, taking all possible future interest rate scenarios into account. The OAS is the net spread over the swap curve that will on average be earned if the security is held to maturity.

Rising star is the term given to a bond that was rated high yield but has since been upgraded to investment grade.

"Risk assets" are any financial security or instrument that are likely to fluctuate in price.

Risk premia is the return in excess of the risk-free rate of return an investment is expected to yield.

Roll yield is the yield that a futures investor captures as their long position in a futures contract converges to the spot price.

"Safe haven" is an investment that is expected to retain or increase in value during times of market turbulence.

"Safe Spread" is defined as sectors that we believe are most likely to withstand the vicissitudes of a wide range of possible economic scenarios. All investments contain risk and may lose value.

The SEC yield is an annualized yield based on the most recent 30 day period. The subsidized yield includes contractual expense reimbursements and it would be lower without those reimbursements. The Unsubsidized 30 day SEC Yield excludes contractual expense reimbursements.

Tracking error measures the dispersion or volatility of excess returns relative to a benchmark.

To relate the price sensitivity of ILBs to changes in nominal yields, yield beta is applied to nominal changes to arrive at a price sensitivity of ILBs to changes in nominal rates. A yield beta of 0.90 implies that if nominal yields move 100 basis points, real yields will move 90 basis points. ILBs with long maturity may respond differently to changes in nominal rates than shorter maturity ILBs.

The distribution yield for monthly paying Funds is calculated by annualizing actual dividends distributed for the monthly period ended on the date shown and dividing by the net asset value on the last business day for the same period. The distribution yield for quarterly paying Funds is calculated by taking the average of the prior four quarterly distribution yields. The quarterly distribution yields are calculated by annualizing actual dividends distributed for the quarterly period ended on the most recent quarterly distribution date and dividing by the net asset value for the same date. The yield does not include long- or short-term capital gains distributions.
